

Recall of “Lotte’s Choco Pie Banana” due to undeclared allergen (almonds)

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has issued a food recall alert on “Lotte’s Choco Pie Banana” due to an undeclared allergen (almonds).

2 As the implicated product was imported into Singapore, the Singapore Food Agency has directed the importer, Sing Long Foodstuff Trading Co Pte Ltd, to recall the product. The recall is ongoing.

3 Consumers who have purchased the affected product, and who are allergic to tree nuts (such as almonds) and nut products should not consume it. The presence of this allergen (almonds) does not pose a food safety issue to consumers at large, except for those who are allergic to tree nuts (such as almonds) and nut products. Consumers may contact the importer, Sing Long Foodstuff Trading Co Pte Ltd, at 6284 5254 for enquiries and for exchange or refund of products.

4 Details of the product are as follows.

Implicated product: Lotte’s Choco Pie Banana (12 pk) Product of South Korea Date marking: All Best Before dates marked 11 April 2020
--	--

Issued by the Singapore Food Agency

28 February 2020