1. Use separate chopping boards for preparation of ready-to-eat and raw food.

2. Clean chopping boards regularly to remove grease and dirt.

3. Replace chopping boards when they are excessively worn-out.

---

A food hygiene tip brought to you by National Environment Agency